Comments:	My vessel, a 7.5 metre sail boat with twin keels will stay in the water for 2 years, receiving 2 scrubs. I applied 4 coats and is far more effective in Poole harbour than copper coat was

Comments:	Keep the product going - it works. Compared to other yachts who lift in / out at my location in Falmouth I have considerably less growth compared to all other boats, whether they have used £100.00 a tin antifoul or £60.00 a tin special. The other person who uses EU-45 at my yard has the same minimal growth and he only uses 1 coat! When I say growth, I will quantify this statement - growth in my case is slime. Growth on other boats not using EU-45 is weed hanging from the waterline and dozens of water filled translucent creatures hanging from keels and through hill fittings.

Comments:	One of the only antifouling paints that I have used that kept it's dark blue colour for more than 12mths and releases any slime or crustaceans with an application of detergent and power wash All in all it does what it says on the tin admirably

Comments:	Hi I'm Peter hard your antifouling keeps of all seaweed barnacles and that type of fouling but it is not prevent I can only describe it as a slimy fairy substance which impedes the performance of a sailing boat. Not knowing your development plans if it would be possible to overcome that form of growth when developing your next generation of antifouling it would certainly put your product in a better position as compared with other antifouling. I look forward to seeing your developments for next year and wish you luck with overcoming all the restrictions put on to your product when you are developing. Regards Peter

Comments:	We have our boat and previous boats on the West of Scotland. We do maintain a fairly regular anti-fouling routine and have always found, at the end of the season, our hull to be remarkably clean and perhaps cleaner than other vessels lifted from the water at the same time. In our advancing years, we would be disappointed if we had to resort to the ineffecti ve anti-fouling products we used before using EU45.

Comments:	Have used red too with great results. Have used most of the international antifouls and prefer EU45 for best results. Plus I prefer to buy from sole traders.

Comments:	It was found best to apply a second coat around the boot / waterline, as our SW England waters had the most slime growth here, and it needed cleaning a couple of times a season.

Comments:	This ant-foul has been used in the Thames Estuary in a twice drying situation. It has proved very good at combating barnacles and excellent at combating weed and slime (which is a particular problem in the estuary). One application of two coats covers a season from March to October but would probably last longer as only periodic scrubbing above the waterline is required.

Comments:	Out of the many antifouls I have used over the last 30 years EU45 was and is still by far the best product on the market in my opinion. Since the use of this product my yacht virtualy carries no growth on my yearly lift out. I have and will still recommend to others.

Comments:	Boat moored in Yealm estuary this is considered to be one of the most heavily fouling areas. International paints had their test sites here.Having tried many Antifoul's Eu 45 performed extremely well and I will continue using this product.

Comments:	A previous boat on my permanent Loch Fyne mooring: Fouled visibly before the end of the season when Flag antifoul was applied. Lasted the season and winter afloat but required a pressure wash and fresh coat using Cruiser Uno for the next season. Lay to the mooring for 2 largely idle years, requiring only a light pressure wash and re-coat when I discovered EU45. 'Nuff said, I will be re-ordering in the new year.

Comments:	We have several boats to antifoul. We usually use red or dark blue, next year will require light grey on a new boat we have just acquired already antifouled. EU-45 is a great product from nice people.

Comments:	I have not tried and used all the makes on the market but I have tried three other makes. I find this product to be the best suited to the water that my boat is used in out of all the makes I have used, resulting in having to anti foul the boat less frequently.

Comments:	I have found EU-45 to be an excellent product at a good price and comparable with more expensive paints. Bill Robinson has always been available to answer questions or give advice. I have recommended EU-45 to a number of sailing friends. EU-45 should market through Yacht Clubs

Comments:	La atención telefónica fue excelente. Me diriji a ustedes por recomendación de un amigo, y la verdad no me ha defraudado. En comparación a otras embarcaciones, la mia tiene mucha menos suciedad en la zona donde trabaja el antifouling. Yo mismo lo he recomendado a varios compañeros de Pantalán. Cuando una cosa es buena , se aprecia y se recomienda. No quisiera que desapareciesen ustedes, el año próximo volveré a comprarlo y sino, lo compraré antes para no quedarme sin el.

Comments:	Estoy muy satisfecho con el rendimiento del producto y con diferencia de durabilidad con otros antifoulings que había gastado anteriormente. De echo, desde que lo probé, no he gastado otro y así lo he comentado en las redes sociales. Seguiré gastando EU-45.

Comments:	No conocía el EU-45, y un amigo que tiene barcos de charter me habló muy bien de él y el año pasado lo compré e hice la prueba, que resultó satisfactoria; este año he vuelto a comprarlo y lo aplicaré en breve. La imprimación también excelente. BUENOS PRODUCTOS LOS DE EU-45.

Comments:	Después de más de 30 años pintando mi barco personalmente es el mejor antifouling que he dado y el resultado es muy satisfactorio, el trato y la atención que me han dado como cliente es inmejorable. Si no varían la calidad han conseguido un cliente para toda la vida. Se lo recomiendo a todos mis amigos.
